

I Prefer Paris

December 20, 2010

Christmas in Paris 2010: Hermés

The windows at Hermés never disappoint in terms of decadent luxury and this year they have pulled out all the stops to present a fantasy world of flowers. American artist Timothy Martin was invited by Leila Menchari of Hermés to collaborate with her to create this season's windows. He he spent five months painting ten 8' X10' paintings and each one is a whimsical, flower framed original with a musical instrument or chair also composed of flowers. If you don't get to Paris for the holidays to see these beauties, don't worry, they will be up till February 21.

Hermès
24 rue Faubourg St. Honore, 1st. arr.
Metro: Concorde

